Much appreciation goes out to Mardy Anderson, Ogden Homes (ogdenhomes.ca) for sponsoring this year's Parade of Garage Sales which took place on Saturday, July 29, 2023.

Thanks again to Marnie Common, community resident, small business owner & part of the People of OGDEN FB admin team, for her leadership.

Jack Setters Arena staff have been very busy working on repairing, replacing, and refreshing the facility in preparation for the fall-winter season. Much of the work being done is maintenance and preventative maintenance to ensure our facility can continue to run smoothly for many years to come. All prime-time ice slots have been filled with many long-standing hockey and ringette teams. The ice is getting it's finishing touches and drop-in programs will start back the week of September 18. On behalf of MOCA we would like to welcome our new Arena Supervisor Paul Henriks.

We are very fortunate to have such services made available for many of our community school age children.

- Tool Lending Shed: The tool lending shed has been very well utilized this summer, which is exciting to see residents caring about and beautifying their yards.

George Moss Park Redevelopment: A ground-breaking ceremony was held on Wednesday August 16th for the George Moss Park Redevelopment project. For more information, see page 10 for Livewire Calgary article or view the Global News link at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7yG5mXIIAI4>. Key speakers were Sheila Taylor, Parks Foundation, MLA Eric Bouchard on behalf of MLA Tanya Fir, Councillor Carra, Ward 9, Jane Wachowich, YYC-Ogden, Wendy Tynan, Green Line LRT and Jamie McCoun, Flames Foundation.

The George Moss Park Redevelopment project is thanks to Jane Wachowich, Director YYC-Youth Centres of Calgary (<https://www.youthcentresofcalgary.com/>) who upon a visit to the Ogden Youth Centre by Councillor Carra, shared her concern over the limited space the youth had to play basketball in the center's backyard. Councillor Carra followed up by connecting her with Parks Foundation Calgary. Working in partnership with Parks Foundation Calgary, and the following partners and donors, Green Line LRT, Alberta Government, Flames Foundation, Calgary Foundation for Community Foreer, Sofina, Thornhild Child Care Society, the redevelopment project has now begun construction with a proposed completion date of spring 2024, weather permitting.

For additional information, contact info@parksfdm.com or refer to the website <https://www.parksfdn.com/georgemoss>.

Upcoming Dates:

- September 5, 2023: MOCA General Meeting - Location: St Bernadette Parish Hall located at 7103 – 20A Street SE.

A MESSAGE FROM THE FACILITIES TEAM

Jack Setter's Arena

The MOCA Board and our general manager have been working on addressing a number of the 5-year life-cycle issues at the arena. We have ordered a phase two engineer's report regarding the building and the needed work to the north wall. A second-level review of the fire alarm system has also been ordered.

We are working on doing some concrete work late in August to address issues with the floor in the Olympia room and the approach from the room to the ice pad. The outside approach will also be replaced.

There was a plan to replace the dasher boards before the ice goes in this September. However, issues surrounding the City's review process took too long and we lost our window of time to do the work between the end of ball hockey and the installation of the ice. The manufacturer and installer have been identified and we are securing a time slot to do the work as soon as this year's hockey season is done. Once the new dasher boards are in place we can begin work on some other life-cycle items.

MOCA has secured a grant to help with the cost of these undertakings.

MOCA Upper and Lower Hall

As many of you probably know, the Board has been working for a few years trying to update the community hall. After several revisions to the original plan, the Board found that the cost for the planned addition and updating continued to be well above the available budget. The new plan is to update and upgrade the existing hall and surrounding yards. There is no longer a plan to construct an addition. This process has taken so long that the Board had to provide specific information to the province to retain a grant. There is an expectation that some of the work can begin before yearend. Items currently included in the renovation plan are; replacing the main level floor with vinyl plank flooring; updating the bathrooms on both levels and making them more accessible; upgrading the building's electrical system; updating the sound attenuation, accessibility and storage areas; and considering the exterior finish.

Other things that will be addressed over the next couple of years are improving the outdoor area around the hall, improving the mechanical and plumbing in the MOCA annex and adding accessible parking stalls. Other accessibility issues will be considered. The opportunity to add solar panels on the roof is also being investigated to reduce the community's utility costs.

The Board is also looking at updating the community logo and signage. A new colour palette is being reviewed as part of the overall renovation project.

George Moss Park redevelopment breaks ground in southeast Calgary

The planned redevelopment of a long-time southeast Calgary park was inspired by kids playing basketball on a concrete pad. Parks Foundation Calgary broke ground on the George Moss Park redevelopment during an event held at the location on Wednesday. The project, located at 74 Avenue and 24 Street SE in the community of Ogden, is set to begin construction next week and the Parks Foundation is hopeful to see the project completed by this fall.

The George Moss Park project was started because the youth in the area were playing on a small concrete pad at the back of a house with balls rolling out into the street. When people started hearing that the youth didn't have a proper place to play, they jumped on board to get the project moving.

Parks Foundation breaks ground on the George Moss Park redevelopment on Wednesday, August 16, 2023. ISABELLA WEST / FOR LIVEWIRE CALGARY

"This didn't start with the city, this didn't start with the Parks Foundation, this started with kids playing basketball," said Sheila Taylor, Parks Foundation CEO.

The redevelopment is in partnership with the Youth Centres of Calgary (YCC) and the Green Line LRT to create a gathering space welcoming for all. When brought up to the podium, Jane Wachowich, Executive Director of YCC, invited all the children that attended the groundbreaking ceremony to stand with her.

"These kids are the future of our city. They're going to create wonderful opportunities for themselves and their families and I couldn't be more proud," said Wachowich.

The YCC headquarters is located just a one-minute walk from George Moss Park. Yet, Wachowich said that there are still kids playing basketball on their cement pad seven days a week until sundown.

"This is an accident waiting to happen. We can put as many cones on the street as we want but someday, the ball is going to dribble and there's going to be a problem and I don't want that to happen," said Wachowich.

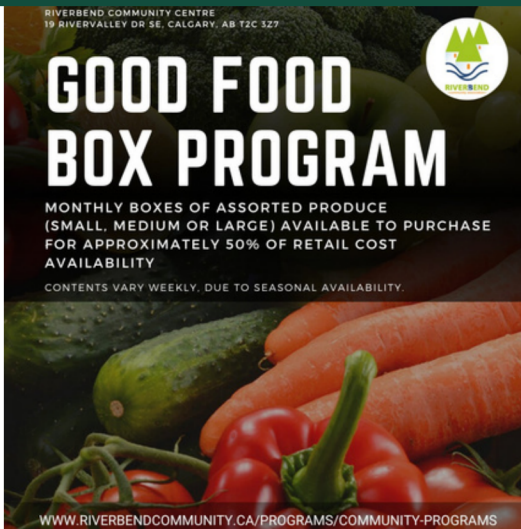

The redevelopment is also being supported by many donors such as the Calgary Flames Foundation, the Calgary Foundation, Thornhill Child Care and the Sofina Foundation. Ward 9 Coun. Gian-Carlo Carra said that he is glad to see that the project is leading with infrastructure that will serve and transform the community today right in its heart.

"Ward nine is East Calgary, and East Calgary are the working neighbourhoods and landscapes that built the city that we love today and that are actively building the city that we're becoming because of our diversity of opportunity and people and place," he said.

Sam Taylor is a resident of the surrounding area of George Moss Park. She said that she takes her six-year-old daughter to the park three to four times a week. Sam said that the park up the hill is more suitable for her daughters' size and age but would benefit from having more options at George Moss Park. "She's finally growing into this park, but having something smaller when she was when smaller would have been great," said Sam.

The proposed park features are expected to include two artistic half-basketball courts, a full-size basketball court, increased seating, a community plaza, a playground suitable for toddlers, green space, a fire pit and the existing community skating area, according to the Parks Foundation Calgary. "We want public spaces to be used all year round. Winter is long in this city and so this park will serve summer and winter use [and] will have toddlers right alongside teens, families and seniors," said Sheila Taylor.
